This week's key question:

Will classrooms of the future be teacherless?

Despite the wet weather, we've had a super week at Roby Mill with plenty of excellent learning taking place. Reception have been reading Supertato and have been linking their learning to superheroes. Key Stage One have been reading non-chronological reports based on penguins and have been introduced to the part whole model in Maths. Key Stage Two have been working hard on their Spanish numbers.

Many thanks for the all donations received today for the cake sale. It was wonderful to see so many friends and family attend and a fantastic opportunity for the children to show off their work. We raised a super £83.89 for the Macmillan charity which for such a small school is amazing. Thank you!

Penny and Ivy's dad is walking 62 miles in October to raise money for Diabetes UK. A QR code is opposite if you would like to show your support.

If anyone uses the Asda Rewards app you can opt in to the Cashpot for schools scheme and select our school. We will receive a small donation every time you shop and scan. Thank you
